MVC Architecture Diagram:

In the below shown diagram,

1. User enters the valid data in the form.
2. Then form will send the request for new row creation and number of rows must be the data entered in the particular field
3. Then, the Controller uses the appropriate View and Model and creates the response and creates the number of rows required..